

Matten, Ellen

From: coynes@uswest.net
Sent: Sunday, April 25, 1999 12:53 PM 0401 '99 JUN -4 A9:44
To: USCodex@dchqexs1.hqnet.usda.gov
Subject: CODEX MEEETING

Sensitivity: Personal

Mr Lake: We all are residents of planet earth. Some mistakes are blunders which through diligence can be corrected. I prescribe to the idea that everyone has the opportunity to do this and let others know of their findings. I have a son who was diagnosed with a "rare", genetically based eye disorder that rendered him legally blind. I became frustrated after seeing so many specialists and after consulting with an alternative health professional invested in an $18 bottle of a plant derivative called lutein. After two months his problem resolved and he has 20/30 vision. After the $1,000's spent to diagnose him, I and his primary opthomalogist were ecstatic. We celebrated with carrot juice! Pure medicine is not just science and we have begun to accept that as a society. Science cannot be pure when it's contaminated with other agendas. Whatever your role in establishing food standards for our shrinking planet I pray and challenge you to keep your channels open to all the information.
Patricia Coyne, RDCS (cardiac sonographer)

92N-0139

C5440